

A little over four years ago I was admitted to Northwestern to undergo a stem cell transplant. At that time I was so weak that, not only was I bedridden, but I found it difficult to even roll over without assistance, for the first two years after the stem cell transplant I was still struggling and having some significant relapses but gradually I started to regain my strength. I am now 71 years old and, knock on wood, my health is excellent. Every morning I work out for over an hour in the gym. Dr Burt and his team were very dedicated and extremely knowledgeable and I can't thank them enough, they basically saved my life!
